ANGELINE

What: Pinot Noir, cabernet and merlot sourced from Sonoma's many distinctive cool-climate vineyards.

Standout: The 2005 Sonoma Coast Pinot Noir ($14), with a fresh coastal character that supports layers of bright, tangy fruit.

Where: Angeline is made by Martin Ray Winery, which is based in Santa Rosa, California, in a winery facility that dates back to 1902.

When: The bright freshness of the Sonoma Coast Pinot Noir is terrific with grilled salmon. Pour the spicy Sonoma County Merlot of the smooth Sonoma County Cabernet (both $14) with a charred rib eye.
